

Cookie Contest Results

Stats on the cookie contest. The Ol Ladies got him. He made his announcement at the banquet, and Ruthless was the chosen one. Only one thing. Sage Chicks mom Fowl Lady made a batch of cookies approx. 12 doz. and we all divided the cookies, put them on different plates and placed them into Deadwood Stans tent. Now he didn't have time to judge them until Saturday. Deadwood, 7 mile Tom, Manatee, and our famous Tex. They ate and ate and drank and drank but could not decide between a couple of the plates and so Deadwood went out and found Colt on the road and told him to come in because they had a tie and couldn't decide. Colt helped them with one cookie that he was sure had Ohio Black walnuts, and insisted that they were nice and sweet and was sure that these were Ohio Black Walnuts in the oatmeal cookie. Tex was sure that the cookie he had was rich with more spices. 7 Mile Tom told me today that he was sure the cookies tasted different. And I think Manatee forgot to judge and just ate cookies.

Now Maggie and I were out on the road watching these judges and laughing up a storm, cause Colt had been eating these cookies for 2 days. He would take a bite and look up at us with this laugh and then would get real serious. He said they were saying that some of the cookies were more moist and some were dry, but little did they know, they all came from the same batch. Poor ol Deadwood pulled in the wrong person, cause Colt really had the ol guys going. Powers of suggestion work every time.

Some of the Ol Ladies in this cookie contest were Ruthless McDraw, Honey be Quick, Two Sons, Katie Callahan, Lill from Kentucky, Sage Chick and her mother the cookie baker, Fowl Lady, and Millie. We all have been on the phones for a long time. Ol Deadwood was speechless at the banquet. Now we know Deadwood likes Ruthless more than the other Deadwood Dollies. 😄

Two Sons